At Mark's Snacks, we keep it simple. No seed oils. No junk. Just bold, crave-worthy chips made with avocado oil and ingredients you can actually pronounce.

I'm Mark — a dad, coach, and wellness enthusiast. After a decade in the natural foods industry, I saw one glaring truth: most snacks claiming to be "better-for-you" still use inflammatory oils and overcomplicated labels. So, I set out to build something different — a snack brand grounded in real ingredients, clean fats, and honest transparency. The kind of chips I feel good about giving my kids and sharing with my community.

Made with real ingredients, read the labels (ingredients you can pronounce)

S'NOODS

Born from winning Netflix's Snack vs. Chef, S'NOODS is more than a chip with a bold flavor claim. Every bag is rooted in real dishes and spices from around the world, delivering the crunch of a chip with the comfort of noodles. The result is a better-for-you snack as versatile as it is craveable: elevated enough for a deli charcuterie board, easy enough for a lunchbox, and clean enough that athletes and foodies both keep reaching for it. All gluten-free, vegan, and kosher, so nobody has to sit out. Because noodles aren't just food—they're culture, comfort, and now...a really addictive chip.

Zahav Foods is the retail extension of Zahav — Michael Solomonov and Steve Cook's landmark Israeli restaurant in Philadelphia, and the 2019 James Beard Outstanding Restaurant in America. Every recipe travels straight from the CookNSolo kitchens into the container: the same hummus Chef Solomonov has served for seventeen years.

We don't make hummus for the dip aisle. We make it for the center of the table — the way it's meant to be eaten. Creamy, warm-spiced, finished with a spoon and a drizzle of olive oil. A meal, not a condiment.

Our Hummus bases is made with only six simple ingredients, no added oil and the the same premium imported roasted sesame tehina used in the restaurants.

Developed from recipes straight from Michelin recommended restaurants that can be replicated easily at home.

All items are seed oil free, Non GMO, Kosher and Gluten Free Certified.

Long before “plant-forward,” “gut health,” and “functional food” became grocery-aisle buzzwords, they were simply part of everyday meals across Africa; whole grains, legumes, lean meats, and leafy greens, slow-cooked to build flavor while preserving nutrients. Shaped by trade, migration, and generations of family traditions, this food represents connection and celebration. Global Village Foods carries that legacy forward with boldly spiced, plant-forward, minimally processed foods inspired by nourishing traditions from Africa and around the world—all rooted in the simple joy of eating well.
